

The ASIAN JOURNAL OF GERONTOLOGY AND GERIATRICS is the official joint publication of the Hong Kong Geriatrics Society and Hong Kong Association of Gerontology. It is published three times a year. It publishes peer-reviewed English and Chinese articles representing the full range of medical, social, and rehabilitation sciences related to older people. The Journal is committed to the improvement of practice, extension of knowledge, as well as development, promotion and dissemination of research findings in very broad fields of gerontology and geriatric medicine. It also aims at providing linkages of regional and international research, education, and practice.

Information for Authors

Preparation of Manuscripts

General

Submission of an article implies that the work described has not been published previously (in any language), and that it is not under consideration for publication elsewhere. Although the editors and referees make every effort to ensure the validity of published manuscripts, the final responsibility rests with the authors, not with the Journal, its editors, or the publisher.

Copyright

The author(s) submitting a manuscript to the journal understood that, if the manuscript is accepted for publication, copyright of the article should be assigned exclusively to the Journal. Upon acceptance of an article, authors will be asked to sign a Disclaimer Form <<http://www.hkag.org/ajgg/>>. If an author intends to reproduce the published article, either in part or in whole, he or she should obtain the permission in written form from the Editor.

Manuscript type

Original articles—should be no more than 4000 words, number of tables plus figures not more than eight, and references not more than 30.

Review articles—should be no more than 4000 words, number of tables plus figures not more than eight, and references not more than 60.

Special articles—should be no more than 4000 words, number of tables plus figures not more than eight, and references not more than 30.

Case reports—should be no more than 1000 words, number of tables plus figures not more than two, and references not more than 10.

Letters to the Editor—should be no more than 1000 words, and references not more than 5.

Editorials are by invitation only.

Language

Manuscripts submitted in English or Chinese (in traditional Chinese characters) are acceptable. For Chinese manuscript, an English abstract must be provided at first submission.

Style and format

All submissions must be printed on one side of the paper, be double-spaced, and have a margin of 3 cm all round. Illustrations and tables must be printed on separate sheets, and not be incorporated into the text.

■ Title page—it should include the title, full names of all authors with their qualifications (a maximum of two) and affiliations (restricted to one official title). The full address, e-mail, and telephone and fax numbers of the corresponding author should also be provided. Any sponsor(s) of the research involved, along with grant number(s) should be listed.

- Abstract page—a structured Abstract (in four paragraphs namely Background, Methods, Results, and Conclusions with no more than 250 words) should be provided for Original articles, Review articles, and Special articles. For manuscripts submitted in Chinese, an English abstract should also be provided. No abstract is required for Case reports. A maximum of 10 key words should be included.
- References should be numbered in the order in which they were first cited in the text. At the end of the article, the full list of references in Vancouver styles <http://www.nlm.nih.gov/bsd/uniform_requirements.html> should be provided. List all authors when six or fewer; when seven or more, list only first three and add et al. Examples are shown below:

Journal articles
